To whom it may concern:

The CMS rule jeopardizes the right of individuals with developmental disabilities to choose services provided by Ohio's County Boards of Developmental Disabilities. CMS must protect individuals' right to choose the quality programs directly offered by Ohio's County Boards of Developmental Disabilities.

Because Ohio is unique and has a County Board system that is required to pay the state match, CMS must recognize the Firewall document that addresses perceived conflict of interest to ensure the right to choose quality services from the County Boards.
